Preamble

This ruling is issued to provide guidance on when an exempt instrument need not be endorsed or stamped exempt.

Ruling

There are many specific exemptions contained in the Duties Act 2001. These exemptions relate to various instrument and transaction types. The following exempt instruments do not need to be lodged for stamping by the Commissioner of State Revenue (nor do they require endorsement pursuant to Part 6 of the Taxation Administration Act 1997) unless you wish to have the instrument endorsed or stamped exempt (for example where the instrument is required for litigation or is required to be lodged with another government department).

- An agreement for sale of land made under section 17 of the Homes Act 1935 – subsection 53(b), Duties Act 2001
- An assent in relation to land under subsection 36(1) of the Administration and Probate Act 1935 – subsection 53(j), Duties Act 2001
- A lease – subsection 53(d), Duties Act 2001
- A residential lease – item 16 Schedule 3 to Stamp Duties Act 1931
